Local utility helps promote Stoughton

Stoughton Utilities recently made a donation to the Stoughton Chamber of Commerce to be used for website development and maintenance. The grant came from Stoughton Utilities' power supplier, WPPI, as part of the utility's Economic Development program.

“More and more people use the internet to gather information and our site needs to be as attractive, informative and user-friendly as possible. Although our current site is good, we always need to be looking toward improving it. The monies from Stoughton Utilities will be a great help in making the Chamber's web site even better,” says Chamber Executive Director Dave Phillips. “We appreciate both the generosity of Stoughton Utilities and the confidence they have shown in the Chamber by making this donation.”

“As a community-owned utility, we are proud to help the Chamber with this important task of building interest in Stoughton,” said Utilities Director Robert Kardasz.
